Today's Prayer Concerns:

Heavenly Father and faithful friend, I thank You for the blessings of family and friends. I thank you that my life has been enriched by those who have placed around me. I thank you for the love and support that they give. I thank you for the thoughtful advice and wisdom that they provide. Help me to be a friend to others as they are to me. In Jesus name I pray, amen.

Observation

There is so much to be thankful for in my life. The most grateful thing is God's amazing love for me. He loved me so much that he sent his only son to shed his blood for me. He loved me before I even loved myself. When I look back through my life God's love has always been there.

I am thankful for the love and support from my husband, mother, mother-in-law, children, siblings, friends, and even strangers. I know it's God's amazing love that has allowed them to be a part of my life.

I am thankful for teachers and supervisors who saw the potential in me that I didn't see. I remember a supervisor, before I started teaching, asking how long it would be before I graduated. After explaining the classes I needed to finish were during my work hours, she had me sign-up for those classes so I could graduate. I retired from teaching this year in good health.

I know God sees and cares about my life, my health, my wants, my needs, my tears, my hurts, my concerns, my joy, but most of all my relationship with him and others. It has not been easy, but God has been faithful. I am so thankful that God delights in me and wants the best for me, as well as he wants to fill my life with joy and good things.

God's amazing love continues to help me grow, improve, and mature as a person, and for that I am thankful. One thing for sure God's unconditional love never changes and it endures forever. (Psalm 136:1)
